Kathleen Williamson

"Her ability as a writer and the overall intelligence of pieces like "I Can See the New View" will convince many to keep listening."

Ronnie D. Lankford, Jr., All Music Guide

Sing Out Magazine wrote, "Williamson brings a new relevance to the word "eclectic." Kathleen Williamson continues to take Americana songwriting and indie music production up another notch with the 2005 release of her finely crafted CD, The Sacred Spud, featuring such wonderful accompanists as the legendary late Hal Rugg on pedal steel.

The Tucson Weekly Tucson Music Awards (TAMMIES 2006) honored The Sacred Spud with Best New Release and gave Kathleen the Best Songwriter and Best Folk Music Categories.

Williamson's "Love is Best of All," 2003 CD of jazz, blues, and folk originals won awards such as Tucson TAMMIES awards for Best CD and Best Songwriter and the 2004 ASCAP Plus Award for the prestigious artistic value of her original compositions. Kathleen also garnered the Arizona Blues Showdown with Lisa Otey, as well as the 2004 and 2005 ASCAP Plus Awards. KXCI-FM (Tucson) has included Kathleen's compositions on several of their compilation CDs. WBAI-FM's Amy Goodman has twice featured Kathleen's live music on Democracy Now! radio and television broadcasts.
