

Live @ Angel's Serenity

Intimate Concert Series

Saturday September 26th, 7pm

Melanie Devaney

"Melanie Devaney and her music are a warm spring wind after a long grueling Midwest winter where you breathe a sigh of relief that life still has some sweetness," says Denny Garcia, host of KGRR's Midwest Music Makers radio program.

Melanie Devaney's music is like an organic picnic in an inner city park. A combination of folk-rock, Americana and Pop, her lyrics are heavily influenced by images of nature, human and otherwise, while her melodies and chord structures are reminiscent of Dire Straits laced with Chris Isaacs.

In an age when most female singer-songwriters rely on a sense of bitterness and brazenness to get their music across to fans, Devaney is not afraid to speak with her heart. She comes from "Small Town, USA" but her gypsy spirit makes her more like a song-writing Jack Kerouac.
